Affirmative Action Plan Agreed Upon

After four months of negotiations between the construction industry representatives, labor unions and the minority community of Monterey County, they have agreed to the provisions for an Affirmative Action Plan.

The purpose of the agreement is to achieve within five years in Monterey County minority employment in proportion to the minority population of this county. All that remains to be accomplished is settlement on grievances and arbitration procedure and technical corrections in the plan.

Minority ratification of the agreement will be held at two separate meetings on April 16. One meeting will be held at the Seaside High School in Seaside and the other at the Washington Junior High School in Salinas.

The plan provides for an ethnic survey to be made within thirty days of ratification by all participants in the agreement. On the basis of this survey firm plans will be made as to the number of minority persons who will be admitted into the unions during each year of the agreement. This determination will be made by utilizing the 1970 census figures and any other statistical data available that reflects the minority composition of the county. This Affirmative Action Plan places this figure at 27 percent, plus or minus 3 percent.

It is not the purpose of the agreement to put anyone out of work who is presently a member of any of the construction unions. Its purpose is to drastically limit the admission of new Anglo membership until the goals for an ethnic balance has been achieved. The plan includes a provision allowing for the readmission of returning veterans to the unions. New minority members will be admitted as positions open in the construction industry.

The new minority union members will be employed in all construction unions and at all employment levels. The provisions of the Affirmative Action Plan affect all construction, public or private, and applies to all work now in progress and all new construction in the future.

It has been estimated that the new minority enrollment in the unions will earn in excess of $9,000,000 annually by the end of this five year agreement.

The Affirmative Action Plan will be coordinated by an Administrative Committee composed of seven members of the construction industry, seven members of the construction unions and seven members from the minority community.

The minority representation will include three Mexican-Americans, three Blacks and one person from the Filipino or Asian community.

The Administrative Committee will be incorporated for the purpose of receiving federal and private funds for recruiting, monitoring and training the enrollees under the plan.

The training staff will largely be composed of minority persons and the ethnic composition of that staff will reflect the minority persons residing in the county.

Each craft union will have an Operations Committee to monitor the activities of that craft. These committees will be composed of two members each from the construction industry, the union and the minority community. Provision has been made in the agreement to require an affirmative vote from each component group to pass on any recommendations in order to assure that no one group will dominate the operations.

MPC Girl Is Area Winner

Deborah Stewart of Monterey, a Monterey Peninsula College sophomore, is Area Four winner in her study field—science and engineering—in the 1971 Bank of America California Community College Awards Program.

Miss Stewart, who plans to continue her education at a four-year college or university to study "some facet of medicine in which I can work in a clinic with young people," was one of three MPC winners who competed in Salinas March 23 against Bank of America winners from Allan Hancock, Cabrillo, Cuesta, De Anza, Gavilan, Hartnell, Ohlone, San Jose City and West Valley colleges.

On April 22, she will be pitted against science and engineering major winners from four other Northern California areas in final competitions at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel.

First place in her field would earn her a $2,000 award; second place, $1,000; third place, $500. In any case, she will receive $250 as an area winner.

The two other MPC award winners—each of whom received $150 at the area trials—were C. Orlando Bonner of Pacific Grove, who won in the social science-humanities study field and Anthony Xavier of Monterey, business major. No MPC student entered the contest in the fourth study field, technical-vocational.

Summer Job Sign-Up Is Now

Students age 16 and over who want summer jobs may register with the Student Employment Service of the Monterey Peninsula during Easter recess, through April 8, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at the SES counter, Human Resources Development office, 480 Webster Street, Monterey. The office also will be open Good Friday morning, from 8:00 a.m. to noon.

Students, who should have picked up work applications from their high school counselors should completely fill out the form, answering all questions, before registration.

Each student will be given a personal interview unless his record already is on file and requires only updating to remain active for summer work.

Each student will receive a card which explains the SES program and tells about the historical background of this community-sponsored service initiated in 1959, an announcement that students under 18 must have a work permit obtained through their own school counseling office and a yellow card which indicates wage information for boys and girls. This depends somewhat on the age and experience of the student, the type of job, how much supervision is required and number of hours. Hourly wages vary from about $1.35 to $2.00 an hour. Students who register for the first time are given an SES identification card. Special programs are available for disadvantaged youth.

All public and private high schools on the Monterey Peninsula participate in the SES program. This includes both Monterey and Seaside High Schools of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, Carmel High School, Pacific Grove High School, and private parochial high schools, Santa Catalina School for girls, Monterey; Robert Louis Stevenson School for boys, Pebble Beach; and the York School, Salinas Highway.

Students from Monterey Peninsula College and residents of the Monterey Peninsula who attend college or university elsewhere also are eligible for SES up to age 22.

Advantage to the student to sign up for work through SES is that he can earn money, perhaps to further his education, learn a skill and build a record of work experience.

MUTUAL ADMIRATION—Rear Admiral Robert W. McNitt, superintendent of Naval Postgraduate School who has been ordered to Washington, D.C. to work with Chief of Naval Operations, expresses his appreciation of presentation of Joint Employees Council's gift of plaque. He also expressed gratitude for assistance and cooperation of council to listeners (from left) Mrs. Pauline Greene, Ivan Gillis, president of council, W.B. Lockwood and (far right) Pope McDonald.

Heller said there has been widespread interest in the plan. He said a wide diversity of viewpoints will be presented at the conference sessions and predicted "some lively discussions."

General chairman of the conference is William M. Roth of San Francisco, chairman of the board of directors of the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association. Conference speakers and panelists include Willie L. Brown, Jr., chairman, Assembly Ways and Means Committee; President Richard Lyman of Stanford University; Edward J. Logue, president and chief executive officer, New York State Development Corporation; Michael Pevee, research director, California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO; Shelley M. Mark, director, Hawaii State Department of Planning and Economic Development; Raymond L. Watson, executive vice president, the Irvine Company; Stephen Kaffka, Student Garden Project, University of California, Santa Cruz; Miss Pat Herrera, chairman, Save and Improve Cabrillo Beach Committee; Marc Goldstein, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, San Francisco; Harvey Perloff, dean, School of Architecture and Planning, University of California, Los Angeles; and William L. C. Wheaton, dean, College of Environmental Design, University of California, Berkeley.

Participation in the conference is open to the public. The fee of $20 per person includes luncheons on both days.

Registration information and additional details on the conference may be obtained at the offices of California Tomorrow, 681 Market Street, San Francisco, (415) 391-7544.

Easter Means -

by Rev. Robert E. Bendick
Faith Lutheran Church

He is risen, He is risen indeed!
It is through the wood of the cross that joy came into the world. This is the day the Lord has made—let us rejoice!
Each day is a beginning.
Christ has risen—alleluia.
A new trail has been blazed—all life has meaning.
He lives—new life bursts forth.
Come alive! Christ has saved us today.
For the Splendor of life we thank Thee Lord, for Thy rising in Splendor we praise Thee.
Christ is alive—Christ is for real.
"I who have died am alive again today, and this is the sun's birthday; this is the birthday of life and of love and wings; and of the gay great happening inimitably earth." (e.e. cummings)
"On Easter the veil between time and eternity turns to gossamer." (Douglas Horton)
The story of Easter is the story of God's wonderful window of divine surprise. (Carl Knudsen)
The Christian should be on alleluia from head to foot. Smile --God loves you!

Deadline Is Near

Time is running out for property owners to file for the $750 assessed value homeowner's exemption, the State Board of Equalization warned recently. April 15 at 5 p.m. is the deadline.

County assessors already have mailed out claim forms on which to file for the exemption, so anyone who didn't receive his form should contact his county assessor immediately, member George Reilly advises.

To qualify for an exemption on property tax for 1971-72, the homeowner must have occupied the property on March 1, 1971. The members of a household are entitled to an exemption on only one dwelling. (A condominium is a separately owned unit in a duplex.)

Qualifying for the $750 exemption are:

Single-family homes or duplexes (but not triplexes or larger);
Condominiums;
Houseboats;
Mobile homes if carried on the assessor's roll

Qualifying for the $750 exemption are: Single-family homes or duplexes (but not triplexes or larger); Condominiums; Houseboats; Mobile homes if carried on the assessor's roll (not licensed by the Dept. of Motor Vehicles); A dwelling being purchased under contract of sale.

Not qualifying for the exemption: A dwelling occupied by a person receiving a veteran's exemption on the property; Property rented, vacant or under construction and not yet occupied on the lien date (March 1); A mobile home licensed by the Dept. of Motor Vehicles; Vacation or secondary homes; Units in a cooperative housing project in which the separate units are not separately assessed; Property for which the owner received a partial or full allowance for taxes in a welfare grant from the state or any political subdivision for the property tax year in question.

Easter is here and the Christ has risen. To those of us who live in a Christian world, the symbolism of a rising Christ is the beginning of a new day, a new year, a new world or even just a new thought.

Every people since the beginning of man has had their "Easter" symbolizing the arrival of Spring. Spring Festivals are on record as far back as man has been able to delve into history. Each civilization celebrated its own rites—some with sacrifices, others with joyous festivities. All have heralded the arrival of a new day. All gave thanks for the light taking over from the darkness of Winter. The Earth opened and gave forth with its abundance; the flowers came to bloom; the trees with their bountiful blossoms told man that there would be a harvest later in the year and the Spring lambs were born, assuring man of meat and clothing.

All of these expressions from nature were a well of hope for man, an assurance that all was right with the world. They signalled that the days of darkness were over and that there was bountiful supply for all. Man may articulate the words and till the soil and sew the garments, but it is nature which produces all. Man is but an insignificant part of the entire scheme of nature. Like the flowers and birds and bees, each of us awakes each day to a new world. That awakening is the symbolism of Easter. It's an awakening to the beauty of each day, of each hour, of each moment. It's a reassurance that we do live in a world of light and that light will guide us through this

Conservation Camporee Is Scheduled

Over 1,000 Boy Scouts and leaders in the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will take part in the Conservation Camporee at the Forest of Nisene Marks on April 17 and 18 announced Council Camping Chairman John Biondi.

The park is located near Aptos in Santa Cruz County and the Scouts will build trails and clean up the area to make it ready for use by the public. They will also begin a variety of conservation projects in the park as part of the SOAR (Save Our American Resources) program being carried out nationally by the Boy Scouts of America.

Boy Scouts and leaders will check in at the Nisene Marks area late afternoon of April 16 or early on April 17.

Throughout Saturday they will carry out their assigned conservation and trail building projects, climaxed in the evening by a campfire program.

Following an award ceremony on Sunday morning the Scout troops will leave for home. All Scouts participating will receive a specially designed "patch" that can be worn on the Scout uniform.

The Boy Scout SOAR program resulted from a request last year from President Richard Nixon when he asked the 6 million members of the Boy Scouts of America to develop a program in 1971 aimed at making "...each American citizen understand and accept a personal responsibility to contribute to the improvement of the environment we must all live in."

Dr. Arthur Benoit is chairman of the local council's SOAR committee.

Other organizations working on the April trail building project include the Santa Cruz Mountain Trails Association, Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, Loma Prieta, Salinas Campfire girls, groups of high school students and State Park Officials. Jerry Hughes is coordinator for the Boy Scout council with the Nisene Marks Advisory Committee.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi There, Fellow Peninsulans:

The following article is a continuation of the series of articles on "Language in the Black Culture."

The traditional program has been a remarkable failure in teaching disadvantaged black children standard English. Many of these children graduate from school speaking the non-standard dialect they spoke when they entered kindergarten. The reasons for this failure will be discussed. First, however, it is necessary to discuss the language system-- the non-standard dialect of disadvantaged black children and its handicaps.

Black children who speak the non-standard Negro dialect are handicapped academically, socially and vocationally. The language of the school is standard English. Children who cannot speak standard English cannot derive the maximum benefits from the total instructional program. Children who speak a non-standard dialect are particularly handicapped in reading (Dawson, 1954). Standard English is the key to academic success; without it, many black children are not able to unlock the shackles of failure imposed by a non-standard dialect.

Persons who speak a non-standard dialect often evoke negative reactions in listeners who speak standard English. Persons who speak standard English make negative judgements about an individual on the basis of how that individual speaks (Lambert, 1963).

Many jobs require the ability to speak standard English, particularly jobs that involve contact with the public either in face-to-face relationships or by telephone. An individual can be qualified in every other way for a particular job and be denied the job because he cannot speak standard English (Hernandez and Johnson, 1967).

Both historical and social factors explain the existence of the non-standard Negro dialect (Stewart, 1967). Negroes spoke foreign Languages (African languages) when they first came to this country, just as other immigrant groups spoke foreign languages. In the case of the Negro, however, this fact is often unrecognized. Since Negroes are one of the earliest immigrant groups to this country, their ancestral origin is frequently dismissed or ignored. When people think of the origin of Negroes, they usually refer to slavery. But Negroes had a previous existence, and the early Negroes spoke African Languages, not English. Like other immigrant groups who had to learn English, the native African languages of the Negro slaves "got in the way" during the process of learning English. This "getting in the way" is called "interference." Interference refers to the tendency of individuals to make a language they are learning conform to the sound and structure of their native language. For example, when the Polish immigrants attempted to speak English, they made English sound like Polish. When the German immigrants attempted to speak English, they made English sound like German. The Negro slaves who spoke African languages made English sound with African inflections when they attempted to speak English. Thus, in the beginning of English development among Negroes, a non-standard variety of English was established as the linguistic system of the slaves, because of the phenomenon of "interference." Further, this interference was compounded because the slaves spoke many African languages. Instead of one foreign language, interfering with English, there were many foreign languages interfering with English within the slaves' social environment. Slavery did not provide Negroes the opportunity to participate fully in the American culture where the process of correction may have occurred.

Secondly, Negro always learned English from overseers who spoke a non-standard dialect of English. This has been documented. It is doubtful whether the men who cracked the whip over the backs of the slaves were particularly articulate or models of standard English. Thus, Negro slaves undoubtedly had poor linguistic models. They could not learn standard English from these models.

During slavery, a non-standard dialect developed in the slave subculture, and Negroes born into this subculture learned this non-standard dialect. Lack of education and social isolation perpetuated the non-standard dialect. However, if we are to judge by the results of present-day education, it is doubtful whether the slaves would have learned standard English through formal education. Assimilation is the key to acquiring the language system of the dominant culture, as the experiences of other immigrant groups have proven.

After the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, Negroes continued to be socially isolated and the non-standard dialect was perpetuated. To this day, most Negroes have yet to be assimilated socially or linguistically into the full stream of American life. Many black children in the schools speak a non-standard dialect that has deep roots in their history and in the institution of slavery.

Not all educators and linguists agree that there is a non-standard Negro dialect. Some educators and linguists question whether there is a variety of English spoken exclusively by some Negroes. Many phonological and grammatical deviations in the speech of many Negroes are also in the speech of persons who are not Negroes. However, recent research is establishing, quite clearly and conclusively, that there is an aggregate of deviations found in the speech of Negroes. This aggregate comprises the features of the non-standard Negro dialect (Johnson, 1966; Shuy, 1964; Labov, 1965).

SATISFIED CUSTOMER - Mr. Willie Simmons (left) congratulates local youth on completion of Job Corps training.

Meet the Candidates

Linda Lee Basset is one of the candidates for Trustee of the Monterey Peninsula School Board.

A long-time resident of Seaside, she has been involved in many civic affairs. She has been involved on the ESEA Advisory Committee, PTA, Seaside Planning Commission, Mayor's Committee on the Library, Mayor's Committee on Youth Recreation, Navy Wives Club, day camp leader and girl scout leader.

Mrs. Basset stands for the continual upgrading of quality education, harmony on the school board and for insuring

Linda Lee Basset
Seaside's representation on the board.

Another candidate for trustee is Reverend H.H. Lusk.

He pledges to work for a creative educational system, which will be interesting and imaginative enough to discover drop-outs while still imparting often forgotten simple rudiments of the three "R's."

Rev. H.H. Lusk

exhaustive study of methods and implementation and gradual reduction in the cost of education on the Peninsula. Lusk also wants more involvement of parents in the approaches toward the solving of present problems and the planning for future growth or counter-action as condition may warrant.

Job Corps Is Here to Help You

Young Penist has interest in learning a trade and getting paid while doing so - can set up such an arrangement with the Job Corps.

There are 11 Job Corps centers in the west teaching the following trade: air conditioning, automotive work, carpentry, culinary skills, custodial trades, farming, heavy equipment, landscaping, building maintenance, marine skills, painting, plastic, warehouse work, masonry and welding.

Edward C. Batuta, who lives at 1692 Lowell Street, Seaside has just returned from Job Corps, where he learned carpentry.

When Edward signed up for the program he too was a little uncertain as to what he was going to do and if he was going to make a go of it. He said that he was glad that he made the decision to enter the Job Corps to learn the skill that he now has.

When asked if he had to do it over again if he would do the same thing, the answer was yes. He stated that at first he was homesick, but, later, when he started learning, the homesickness vanished. Now he can be proud of his choice to remain in the training.

Beside the reward of learning a skill, Edward also received a check from the Job Corps which will help him get a start in his new trade. It is only natural that Edward is quite happy. Edward says that he is on his way to a better life, armed with a trade that will help him compete in today's labor market. If you are between the age of 16 and 21, you too can become one of the youths that will be all smiles; that is of course if you are willing to put your energy toward constructive action in the Job Corps Training Program. When it comes to knowledge of a skill or trade while you are seeking employment, ask yourself if it is better to say, "I don't know".

The Sutter Buttes in California's Sutter County are reported to be of volcanic origin.

* Always fly your kite on days when there is no rain.
* Always avoid busy streets or highways while flying your kite.
* Always fly your kite away from radio and television antennas.

moment, day or year and, yes, to eternity.

The proof that the light does continue to shine was shown this week in the announcement that an agreement was reached by the Minority Affirmative Action Committee with the construction industry in Monterey County. A few years ago there were many of us who wouldn't have given much chance to an agreement from the unions and the contractors to hire and upgrade members of minorities. The stubbornness of the craft unions is not allowing blacks or Mexicans into their ranks has been a stumbling block to progress for decades. The new agreement, which has been four months in negotiation, hopes to achieve within five years in Monterey County, minority employment in proportion to the minority population, which is estimated at about 27 percent.

This milestone in fair employment is a tribute to those who participated in the negotiations. It shows that fair-minded people faced with a critical problem can solve it if they refrain from political and personal consideration and concentrate on the solution. Much credit for the successful agreement can go to our own Jane Van Hook, attorney and head of the Legal Aid Society. She was aided by A. Miguel Rodriguez, who headed the team for the Mexican-Americans, Rodriguez is executive director of the Tri-County Mexican-American Unity Council. Russel Hansen of Monterey headed the labor team, assisted by Don Nichols and Ralph Games of the craft unions. Al Otjen and Richard Lewis of the Construction Industry represented the Contractors. Congratulations to you all, and to supervisor Willard Branson who acted as moderator and to Dick Amador of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance.

If only our own City Council and the Chamber of Commerce could participate in "an act of compromise" to settle some of their differences which arose over who would run the Forth of July Parade this year. Naturally, because of the big beef that arose last year over the exclusion of certain groups from the parade, the City Council wanted some say on how the parade participants were selected. The Chamber of Commerce wouldn't compromise their position of absolute control of the Parade. The Chamber insisted on holding on to a clause in their proposal that stated, "The Seaside Chamber of Commerce shall establish rules and guidelines for the entire parade, INDEPENDENT OF AND NOT SUBJECT TO APPROVAL OF THE CITY COUNCIL." City Manger Milton Manager Milton Farrell brought in a report which showed how Redwood City handles such parades. In that city, an organization is set up to run the parade and their annual time is best characterized as "not strictly patriotic, but really an oldfashioned 4th of July parade, where traditionally, patriotism is present, but not flaunted." If the organization running the parade has some question as to whether an applicant group may conduct itself in a manner not supportive of the theme of the parade, then the organization seeks the advice and investigation of the city staff. If the city staff cannot resolve the problem, then it is turned over to the city council for their consideration.

This seemed to me to be a compromise that the city and the chamber could have lived with. The chamber chose not to go along with the offered compromise, so now the city will probably form its own organization to run the parade. As I mentioned before, those dealing with the affirmative action agreement let NO PERSONAL NOR POLITICAL CONSIDERATIONS get in the way. In the case of the 4th of July Parade issue, it is ripe with personal and political differences.

Tomorrow is another day. Let us hope that the light of Easter will shine on all of us so we will become aware of our strengths and our weaknesses and strive to make each day a better day for everybody.

Who Cares

By Mel Vercoe

Senator John Tunney was the featured speaker at the JC's dinner Friday p. m. at the Holiday Inn. He answered "yes" to each of my three questions. They were (1) Do you intend to vote for ratification of the genocide treaty? (2) Do you think it has a chance for passage? (3) Considering the nature of our war in Vietnam, do you think Senate voting on the treaty at this time is poorly timed?

Virtually every nation except the U. S. has been for 25 years a partner in a treaty outlawing genocide. Now it is coming up for a vote. If we ratify it, it will mean that we want no part of a type of action that even remotely resembles what Hitler did to the Jews, or what the Portuguese are doing in Angola, or what we are practicing in Asia.

At the same time this same Senate has declined to overrule the President to stop the war (and the genocide.) Meanwhile, back on the farm, our general citizens plus many Senators, Congressmen, governors and others have made such a clamor for condoning Lt. Calley's coldblooded murder of over a hundred unarmed civilians, including babies, that a popular President ordered his temporary release rather than lose votes in 1972. To the rest of the world it must now be quite crystal clear that we are no different from the German people we so soundly condemned for not stopping Hitler.

The only difference is, of course, that it was not within their power to stop Hitler, whereas our people could have stopped the war years ago if they had really wanted to stop it.

Ratifying the genocide treaty will be a step forward. Even though we will completely ignore its provisions in our own conduct at home and abroad, it will at least be a source of some embarrassment and may thus help in a small way to end an idiotic war. Senator Tunney will vote for it. Ex-Senator Murphy would very likely have opposed it, so, replacing Murphy with Tunney was a double step forward. A "yes" instead of a "no" makes a difference of "two".

The question now is, can a handful of men like Tunney and Cranston get enough support when the issues are clouded with shallow emotionalism to reverse our downhill slide. Looking ahead only a few years to the next major war, for example, a war that will not be fought in somebody else's country, a nuclear war that will be neither glamorous nor profitable then we must recognize the extreme need for honesty and intelligence and common sense in our white House and our Congress. All three of these commodities are in short supply and kept out of sight lest they upset some vested political and financial interests.

If My Lai can be looked upon as a symptom or a symbol, maybe more than just people died there. Maybe America died at My Lai. Calley was us - the shooting was symbolic of our greedy shortsighted approach to all things and the dying people in the ditch were our future.

Your Social Security

By: Raymond MacDonald

Q. I will be 65 on July 8 of this year and I am confused as to when I should sign up for Medicare. The newspaper said to sign up before the March 31 deadline; I went into your office last week and the young lady at the front desk told me that I should sign up on or after April 1. Will that be too late for me?

A. No, The March 31 deadline is for those between the ages of 65 and 68 who did not sign up earlier. In your case, since you will become 65 in July, you can sign up anytime from April 1 through October 31 of this year. But sign up early so you'll be sure to have Medicare in July.

Q. A friend of mine who has changed jobs a lot says he checks his social security record frequently to make sure it is correct. Can he really do that whenever he wants to?

A. Your friend is wise to check on the accuracy of his social security records, especially since he changes jobs frequently. It's a good idea to ask the Social Security Administration to send you a statement of your earnings every 3 years or so if you change jobs often. The statement shows your total earning under social security, including any self-employment you may have had, and basic pay for active duty in the armed forces.

Your social security office can give you a post-card from (Request for Statement of Earnings) to use in asking for the earnings statement.

Bob Wood Reports

The flu bug made the rounds in our family and he batted an even thousand percent. He never missed a soul, except possibly the family dog—at least she didn't complain to anyone. This same flu bug hit every member of our Sacramento office force and even laid low our District Secretary in Salinas. (I hope our family fared better, percentage-wise.)

One of the most perplexing dilemmas to face educators and law-makers alike is the great inequity in the funding of California's school districts through property taxes.

Spoken for school districts throughout the State say they will be laying off more teachers, curtailing more programs and eliminating more services if more state money is not made available. In many cases, the local property taxpayer has reached his absolute limit.

One of the proposals expected to come before us soon is a statewide property tax to pay for all local public schools. If a state property tax were imposed, taxes now levied by each individual district would be eliminated. In its place school district on a per pupil basis.

The State Board of Education has long held that a statewide property tax to support the schools would be in the best interests of all Californians.

Experts are quick to point out that local economic conditions, particularly a concentration of industry or lack of it makes a great deal of difference in how a school is funded through taxes.

A district in one county, for instance, has an assessed valuation of more than $900,000 for each student and no financial crisis, while other districts have less than $10,000 assessed valuation for each student and are extremely hard pressed for money just to keep operating.

It would appear that because assessed valuation, tax rates and State aid vary for each district, children in some districts are receiving poorer educations than those in richer districts.

The end of the road has been reached by many of these poorer districts. State aid to schools has declined 2 to 5 percent in the last three years and districts have gone to voters for higher local taxes only to be turned down in about 50 percent of the cases.

What all this boils down to is that we, legislators, are faced with three basic choices on school district financing. We can do nothing, which would obviously accomplish nothing except dig us a deeper hole. We can adopt the administration's proposed budget with about the same amount of money for schools as last year - and let the local districts attempt to seek voter approval for local tax hikes. Or we can pass legislation which will give public schools enough money to handle their needs for the next year.

Perhaps a meeting of the minds is within sight.

Questions are Answered

Q -- My husband receives a VA pension, and has to have someone with him constantly. Can his pension be increased to pay for this assistance?

A -- Veterans who receive pension, and who become so helpless as to need regular aid and attendance of another person, may be eligible for an additional allowance. Apply at your nearest VA office.

Q -- What are the VA regulations for servicemen who want to take correspondence courses?

A -- Currently, servicemen must have been on active duty for at least two years, with a period of at least 181 days continuous service. Also, the correspondence course must be approved by the state approving agency and lead to an identified educational or professional objective.

Q -- My father, a disabled veteran, is receiving compensation from the VA. Since I have lost contact with him, will the VA give me his address?

A -- No, All information in a veteran's record, except the amount of payment, is confidential and can be released only by the written request of the veteran. The VA may, however, forward a letter to a veteran, so long as its purpose is not debt collection, canvassing, harassment or propaganda purposes. The letter must be enclosed in a stamped unsealed envelope with no return address.

YAFA Receives Contribution MPC ToScreen

YOUNG ADULTS FOR ACTION was the recipient of a $500 contribution from Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The presentation was made by Mr. George McGuire, the District Manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company at the office of Young Adults For Action.

On hand to receive the check was George Solomon, Recreation Director; Trevor Laing, Assistant Director; Jimmy Roy, Program Administrator and Vivian Holly, Treasurer of the Young Adults For Action Board of Directors.

When asked what the money would be used for, Jimmy Roy explained that it would be difficult to be specific, but there are several areas in which the money could be spent. For example, "... we might use some of the money on our tutorial program or maybe in our recreation program or may it will be used to provide some needy families with food and clothing; it's just difficult to say, but you can rest assured it will be put to good use."

Roy and the entire staff express their sincere appreciation to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for their contribution. This is the second such contribution from this company.

YOUNG ADULTS FOR ACTION have been involved in many activities in the past few years, but only recently have reputable institutions, such as Metropolitan, recognized YAFA's efforts.

YAFA is now deeply involved in an education program by using a new approach to teaching the youngsters who have been classified as "disadvantaged students" as well as putting in a new approach to Drug Abuse and Drug Education to not only students, but to the parents and school faculties as well. The program is primarily a pilot project for suspended students; drop-outs and potential drop-outs. The concept is built around the approach of setting up a "store front" school.

Garden Column

By Russee Parvin
DBA Parvin's Landscaping

Beautification has become the most extensively discussed subject in the United States. We are no longer as interested in jet and missile travel, important people, excessive world gains, but we do want well landscaped parks, streets, homes, and highways. Environment can be improved simply by the addition of plant material. Up to 65 percent of noises can be decreased by using lawns or ground cover, instead of hard surface materials.

LT. Governor Reinecke was the main speaker at a Landscape Contractors Award Banquet I attended last Saturday in San Francisco. He commented on how important landscaping has become as a profession and he commended landscape contractors on the professional action that we have taken to improve our environment.

The state and federal government is increasing in full force the landscaping of freeways, and adding up to 50 percent more parks and road rests.

Seaside has a chance to join right in on the landscaping and betterment of our environment and becoming the most beautiful city on the peninsula.

Sarah Jackson Is Lady of Many Talents

Call For Bids

A state highway improvement project is scheduled for Monterey county.

Route 1 in Monterey County will be widened along the half-mile section from Elkhorn Slough Bridge to Jetty Road, near Moss Landing.

Traffic channels will be constructed in the widened area, to permit safer and easier access for highway traffic to four business establishments, one residence and Jetty Road.

Approximately $89,000 is available for the project, on which bids will be opened April 21 in Sacramento.

Four Films

Four films will be shown at Monterey Peninsula College next week, according to MPC Community Services.

On Wednesday, April 14, the college's admission-free "Theater of the 70's" series will feature two short travel films, "Wings to Scandinavia" and "U.S.S.R." at 12 noon in the campus library lecture hall.

On Saturday, April 17, at 8 p. m. and again Sunday, April 18 at 2:30 p. m. - both in the MPC Music Hall - two hour-long color films, "Hunters of the Deep" and "Carnival Under the Sea" will be screened in the "Man and His World" series.

"Hunters" is Jacques-Yves Cousteau's "shimmeringly beautiful" record of the exploration by scuba divers of the waters of the Western Hemisphere. Slender sharks, sting rays, devil fish and deadly barracuda are featured along with frolicking sea lions, sea elephants, groupers and other enchanting denizens of the sea. The film was international prize winner at the Edinburgh Film Festival.

"Carnival" is a "rare and important" biological film made among the coral reefs of New Caledonia and in the famed aquarium of Noumea. The carnival mood is enhanced by a jazz score and informative English narration. Tickets will be sold at the music hall door.

Sign-Up For Soap Box Derby Season

The 1971 Soap Box Derby season on the Monterey Peninsula has officially begun. All-American Soap Box Derby Headquarters in Detroit has approved the Carmel Valley Lions Club application for a 1971 Gravity Grand Prix franchise, thereby qualifying the Monterey Peninsula area for Chevrolet's International finals in Akron, Ohio, August 14.

This Derby, organized by the Chevrolet Division of General Motors will have the Monterey County Sheriff's Department as co-sponsors.

The Lions Derby Director, Gary Kitt, noted that this year's race will be the first coasting classic to be held at Laguna Seca Race Track.

"The Derby gives all boys in this community between the ages of 11 and 15 an equal opportunity to participate in a constructive form of competition," he said, "and will be open to all boys in the Monterey Peninsula area."

The 1971 Monterey Peninsula champion will receive a handsome trophy and a $500 U. S. Savings Bond from the national sponsor Chevrolet. He'll then compete in Akron for a share of $30,000 in college scholarships. This year's Monterey Peninsula Derby will be held on July 18, 1971, at the fabulous Laguna Seca Race Track through the courtesy of SCRAM.

LEADS FIELD - This 1971 Porsche 911 E Targa, with new and different hood ornament, has been named official pace car for coming Laguna Seca racing season by Don Wester, President of Sports Car Racing Association of Monterey Peninsula and William Diggs, general sales manager for Porsche Audi West Inc. It will lead field around 1.9 mile, nine turn circuit for three weekends of racing. L&M Grand Prix for Continental Formula A/5000 cars is scheduled April 30, May 1-2; Sports Car Club of America National Points event June 18-20 and Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix for Can-Am Group 7 cars on October 15-17.

In Akron, August 14, some 260 youngsters from throughout the United States and from West Germany, the Philippines, Venezuela, Okinawa, Guam, the Canal Zone and Canada are expected to compete in the 34th All-American Derby, billed as the "World's Gravity Grand Prix for Boys," has been sponsored by Chevrolet since 1934.

No races were held during World War II. Approximately 1.5 million boys have participated in the program.

The current All-American champion is Sam Gupton, a 13-year old, Durham, N. C., youngster. He defeated a record field of 260 competitors in Akron to win the $7,500 first-place scholarship from Chevrolet.

You can get an official World's Gravity Grand Prix shoulder patch for your jacket just by visiting your Chevrolet dealer.

At the same time, you can pick up your copy of the official 1971 Rule Book. It's complete with detailed plans of the parts of your racer that must follow specifications to make sure the cars are safe and evenly matched.

Stop in at your sponsoring Chevrolet dealer's and register for the 1971 Gravity Grand Prix. Get your jacket patch and Rule Book.

Show your family and friends that you want to be a part of this greatest race for boys by wearing the patch on your jacket.

Sales Rise

Monterey County residents bought a total of $226,401 United States Savings Bonds during January, compared to $194,576 in the first month of 1970.

Sales figures for the Treasury for the county and state were announced by Raymond M. Smith, chairman of the county's U. S. Savings Bonds Volunteer Committee.

January purchases in California totaled $32,471,023 a year ago.

The Chairman said that approximately 70 percent of E Bond sales are derived from the Payroll Savings Plan in industries and the comparison of state and national bond purchases reflects the continuing employment condition in California's space and defense industries.

Fort Ord Gets Citation for Conservation

In conformance with the Department of Defense policy on conservation of resources and continuing emphasis at all levels of government on protecting the public's environment, Ft. Ord recently received a Citation for Meritorious Achievement in the Department of Defense-wide Natural Resources Conservation Program, signed by the Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird.

The Natural Resources Conservation Program includes the entire Ft. Ord Complex and consists of Ft. Ord proper, Presidio of Monterey, Camp Roberts and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, a total of 238,788 acres.

Basis for the award is a review of the efforts of Ft. Ord Personnel and their program for conservation and management of natural resources in lands (soil, water and grasslands), forest and fish and wildlife, with emphasis on natural beauty and outdoor recreation.

More than 24,000 man-days of recreational activities were provided on the Ft. Ord Complex which included fishing, hunting and hunting dog training.

The citation gives special recognition for meritorious achievement in support of the Department of Defense Natural Resources Conservation Program during the 1969 calendar year. The citation further states that the progress achieved in this conservation effort and the quality of the program reflects great credit upon the installation, the personnel thereof, the Army, and the Department of Defense.

Working very closely with members of the Ft. Ord Command were representatives of the California Department of Fish and Game and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior. Assistance to Ft. Ord is also given by local representatives of the University of California and the Monterey County Agricultural Commissioner.

The success of the Natural Resources Program is made possible by close and continuous co-ordination between technicians and specialists of this command, Headquarters, Sixth U. S. Army, Sacramento District, Corps of Engineers and various other Federal, State and local agencies.

During the 1970 year, Ft. Ord continued the Natural Resources Program and responded to an emergency re-seeding appeal by the Monterey County Flood Control District. The "Buckeye Fire" burned approximately 11,200 acres to the Nacimiento watershed on Hunter Liggett Military Reservation. The loss of vegetation with its accompanying erosion hazard could have caused severe damage to the Nacimiento Reservoir water storage and flood control facility. As a follow-up to the re-seeding, Ft. Ord is currently planting 48,000 seedling trees in the burned area as a part of reforestation plan. Among many other conservation projects carried out and in progress on the Ft.

Ord Complex are: Installation of water holding devices (guzzlers) for small game. Stocking of ponds and streams with bass, bluegill, catfish, sunfish and trout.

Olympic Team Gets Help From B of A

The fund-raising efforts of the United States Olympic Committee often seem a bit remote to the general public. That is, until one discovers the United States is one of the few countries left whose efforts in the Olympic Games are not supported by the government, but entirely by the average citizen and a few corporations interested in seeing that America is well represented.

This good representation isn't always assured. In 1956, for example, seven plane loads of U. S. Olympic athletes waited at John F. Kennedy Airport until last minute contributions made possible the flight to the Games in Melbourne, Australia.

While the airport delay certainly was one of the more dramatic illustrations of the financial pinch the U.S. Olympic Committee faces every four years, spiraling costs to field increasingly large U.S. representation make fund-raising and almost fulltime task for each successive Olympic.

For the 1972 Games in Germany and Japan, the USOC has a budget of $10 million. The money goes to help develop, train, transport and feed the nearly 1,300 athletes and team officials who will represent the U.S. in the summer and winter Olympic.

These facts were brought out at a news conference held by Bank of America Travelers Cheques in New York and San Francisco recently to unveil a unique program whereby California will join in funneling hundreds of thousands of dollars into the USOC through the participation of their customers.

Ernest J. Young, vice president for the Bank of America Travelers Cheques told newsmen that an initial contribution of $130,000 has already been made to the USOC to meet part of its operating expenses in the selection of athletes for the 1972 Games.

He outlined an 18 month program that began April 1 whereby a percentage of every commission paid by purchasers of B of A Travelers Cheques, will be earmarked for use by the USOC.

"Frankly, we hope to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars through the efforts of our seller banks and our customers everywhere," said Young.

"The Olympic Games stand for the kind of activity that every youth of every nation aspires to perform in. Our bank and all of our branches in California find this a valuable contribution in today's environment and we would like to get more actively involved in supporting it."

Young said his bank's plan is unique because it provides a "painless way" for the consumer to contribute. The consumer buys travelers cheques anyway for vacation and business trips, but now he has the additional incentive to help the USOC meet its financial needs.

Cars Are More Damageable

The shocking revelation that 1971 model passenger cars are 50 percent more damageable than 1970 models in low-speed crashes has caused Allstate Insurance Company to urge its policyholders to call upon automobile manufacturers to speed up plans for improved design changes in bumper and related systems.

We offer our millions of customers a 20 percent discount on collision insurance for new cars which can withstand 5 miles per hour barrier impacts without damage.

We have been asking Detroit to bring back better bumpers and stronger cars so we can make good on our offer of lower cost insurance as soon as possible. Instead we get more fragile cars and more delicate bumpers, Judson B. Branch, Allstate's Chairman and Chief Executive, said.

New crash tests conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety revealed that the average damage to 1971 model cars crashed head-on into a barrier at 5 m.p.h. totaled $332 compared with $216 for 1970 models.

The rear-end barrier crashes at 5 m.p.h. averaged $329 for 1971 models, compared with $219 for 1970 models.

Cars tested by the IIHS included 1971 Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth and Ambassador. This is the third series of annual tests conducted by IIHS.

Thus, three model years after the fragile bumper problem was first brought to Detroit's attention by IIHS tests, we have even more fragile automotive design so far as damageable.
